NOTICE.

In the preparation of the following catalogue the compiler has availed himself of the experience of others, and prepared it upon a plan similar to that adopted by the "Boston Mercantile Library Association" and the "Peabody Institute." It was thought that this method of arrangement would offer the greatest advantage to the patrons of the Institution, and afford the easiest method of finding a book. It is, in a great measure, a treble index, giving the book under author and title, and under its subject. In a majority of cases, a knowledge of either will ensure one in finding the work he is in search of. There are cases where no author's name appears, and others where the title or character of the book admits of no classification of subject. In such cases either one or two entries have been made. The intention of the compiler has been to make the alphabetical arrangement perfect, and any deviation from this design, discovered in the book, may be set down to his discredit, recollecting that under the keenest eye and most careful attention errors of this nature may be overlooked.

In condensing the titles, it has been deemed necessay to abbreviate to some considerable extent. Thus "Harper's Family Library," "Bohn's Library," New British Novelist," &c, are designated by their initial letters; "n. d." signifies no date upon title page, and "n. t. p." which occurs in a few instances, indicates that there was no title page to the book. There are other abbreviations which will suggest the full word without explanation. There are a few books in the library not designed for general circulation, and these have been designated by an asterisk placed before the title. The judgment of the librarian must be relied upon, in some degree by the young, in the selection of reading, as the shelves contain books with valuable plates and other features which would render it inexpedient to allow them to pass into the hands of those who could not possibly derive any benefit from their perusal,

In calling for any particular book the number of the shelf as well as the number of the book must be given. By so doing the librarian will be saved the trouble of referring to the catalogue, or of making any search. The arrangement is very simple, and if fully adopted will save much time to the visitor as well as the librarian.

PREFACE.

The foundation of the "Public Library of the City of Newburyport," was laid by the Hon. Josiah Little, who subscribed the liberal sum of five thousand dollars. Hon. Charles Jackson and Col. Samuel Swett, of Boston, assisted by large donations in money and books. The terms of the donation were as follows:

"The subscribers agree to furnish the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Newburyport with the books or sums of money affixed to their names, to form a Public Library for the use of the inhabitants of said city, to be managed by said Mayor and Aldermen, and their successors in office, as Trustees. And also for the use of the inhabitants of the Towns of Newbury and West Newbury, equally with those of said city.

Provided said towns pay their proportion of the expenses of managing said Library, compared with those incurred by said city, for that purpose: said proportion to be in the ratio of the respective appraisement of said city and towns in the State valuation; and also that said towns pay one per cent. jointly, per annum, on the cost of the apartments or building employed for said library, the General Regulations of said Library to be adopted by the City Government of Newburyport."

On the 18th of September 1854, the Mayor laid before the City Council the above communication; which was referred to the Joint Committee on Public Instruction.

The Committee on Public Instruction reported on the 2d of October, 1854, as follows:

That we recommend the acceptance of the propositions as made in the communications of the Hon. Josiah Little, Hon. Charles Jackson and Col.

Samuel Swett. And also that Ward Room No. 4 be appropriated for the Library, and that the room be prepared for that purpose.

A committee was appointed to prepare Rules and Regulations for the government of the library.

On the 20th of November, the Mayor presented the Report of the Joint Special Committee appointed by the City Council to prepare Rules and Regulations for the Public Library, which was accepted, with the rules and regulations; and the following order was adopted:

Ordered, The Common Council concurring, that a Public Library be, and hereby is established, to be called the Public Library of the City of Newburyport, founded by the Hon. Josiah Little.

The towns of Newbury and West Newbury, by their committee, have signified their intention of complying with the terms of the donor. And are entitled to all the privileges of the Library in common with the citizens of this city.

The Library was opened to the public for the distribution of books, in September, 1854.

On the 17th of December, A. D., 1855, the City Council passed an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance concerning the Public Library;" which Ordinance provides for the appointment of a Board of Directors, who should have the general care and superintendence of the Library. On the 27th of January, 1856, the Board was duly constituted, in the manner prescribed in the section fifth of the Ordinance, and, on the 7th February following, the first meeting was held at the Mayor and Aldermen's room, when the Board was duly organized, and the members thereof, who were chosen by the concurrent vote of the City Council, were agreeably to the second section of the Ordinance, divided by lot into two classes; those of the first class to serve until January, 1857, and those of the second class to serve until January, 1858.

The Library now contains about seven thousand six hundred volumes. The books which have been purchased, have been selected with great care by the Committee, who were appointed for the purpose by the founder. This Committee consisted of Hon. Moses Davenport, Rev. L. Withington, Rev. L. F. Dimmick, Rev. D. T. Fiske and Nathaniel Hills, Esq.

The following Rules and Regulations which now obtain in the management of the Institution, were adopted by the Directors February 26, 1856, and the same were afterwards approved by the City Council, March 3d, 1856. The annexed refer to the
